

ACCESS TO JUSTICE: HOW THE LEGAL PROFESSION IS ADDRESSING THE NEEDS OF THE POOR

Presented by the Journal of Gender, Social Policy & the Law and the Office of Public Interest

October 25, 2012
10:00 am – 12:00 pm

American University Washington College of Law
4801 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Room 603

Join us to discuss the many different approaches to providing free and reduced-cost legal services. Speakers will include attorneys working to promote pro bono participation in law schools, the government, public interest, and the private sector. The discussion will consider mandatory pro bono programs in law schools, the New York pro bono bar requirements, and new and innovative approaches to providing legal services.

Full agenda and list of speakers will be available shortly

General Registration, no charge, but required

To register, please go to www.wcl.american.edu/secler/registration. For further information, contact:
Office of Special Events & Continuing Legal Education, 202.274.4075 or secler@wcl.american.edu.